Software Developer

SUMMARY

I am a dedicated software developer with an informatics background and global experiences. I studied in Lugano and participated in an exchange in Copenhagen, combining technical and business skills. Currently, I am pursuing a Professional Certificate in Data Science from Harvard University to apply data-driven solutions to real-world problems. Professionally, I've completed two internships in Dubai, gaining experience in software and web development. I'm an early riser who believes in hard work and dedication, consistently pushing myself to get the job done. I'm driven by the challenge of delivering quality results, to show my capabilities.
